God Works

In this week's readings, we heard about two different miraculous births. In the first, we learned about Samson. As an adult, God made him the strongest man who ever lived. We also learned about John the Baptist, who announced Jesus' coming.

In both cases, their mothers were well past their childbearing years. Yet, they were both blessed with impossible, marvelous, miraculous babies, who grew to be important figures. So, these babies were not only important to their own families, but to all of us, as well.

These two miraculous births also helped to point the way to Jesus. These "miracle babies" pointed to the ultimate miracle, when the Virgin Mary bore the Son of God.

Learning about these miraculous births also shows us that God is active and working in our world. It's good to remember that God doesn't "sit back" and watch it all unfold. He loves us all very much. In fact, he loves us so much, he decides to get involved in our daily lives, in order to draw us closer to Him. The amazing births we learned about today are specific examples of God's intervention in our lives. He seeks to draw us closer to Himself. In short, God works! Thanks be to God!
